Finding a New Home Coloring Book

Somewhere in Pennsylvania, Cam and his family have lost their home and are looking for a new one.

We need to search for a new home.

Cam and his family travel towards Erie to find a new home that will suit them.

After visiting more neighborhoods, Momma Dragon asks about renting this house in Philadelphia.

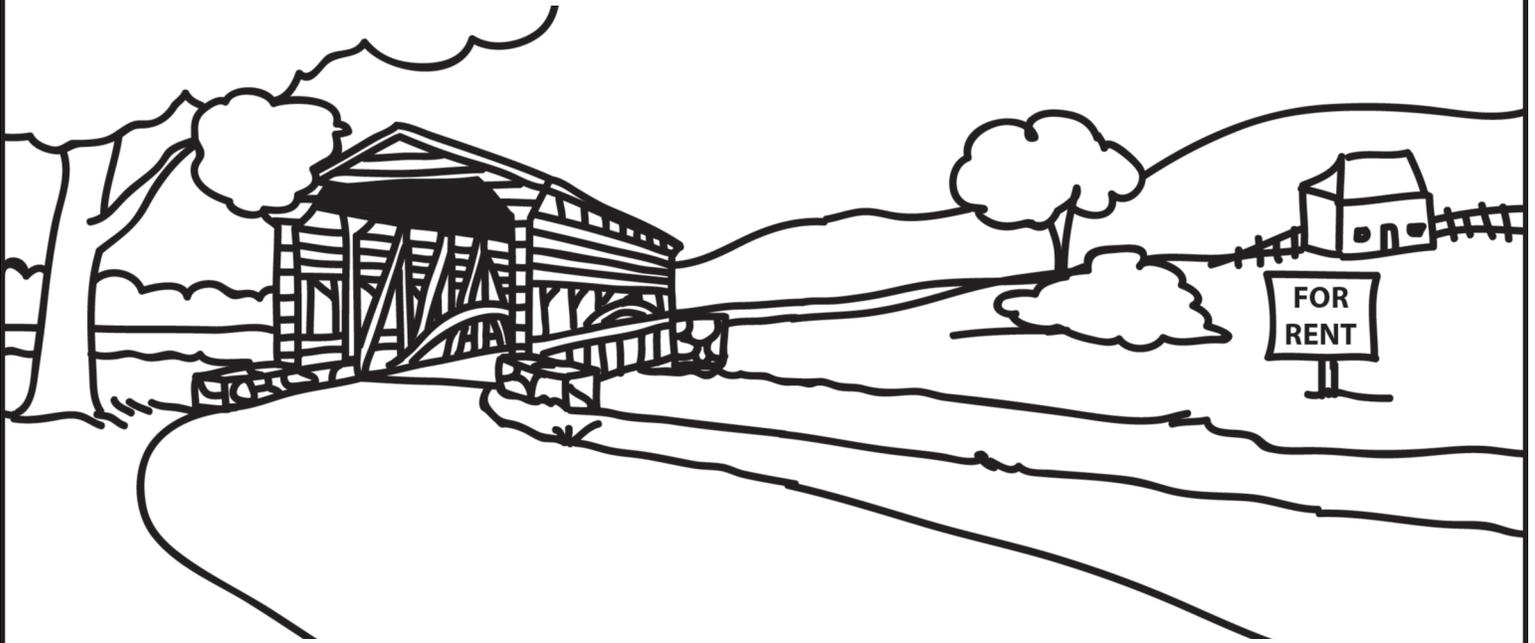

I LIKE this house. It's nice!

The landlord said he does not rent to families. The Dragon family is feeling sad.

The Dragon family travels to a country neighborhood in Lancaster, PA in search of just the right house.

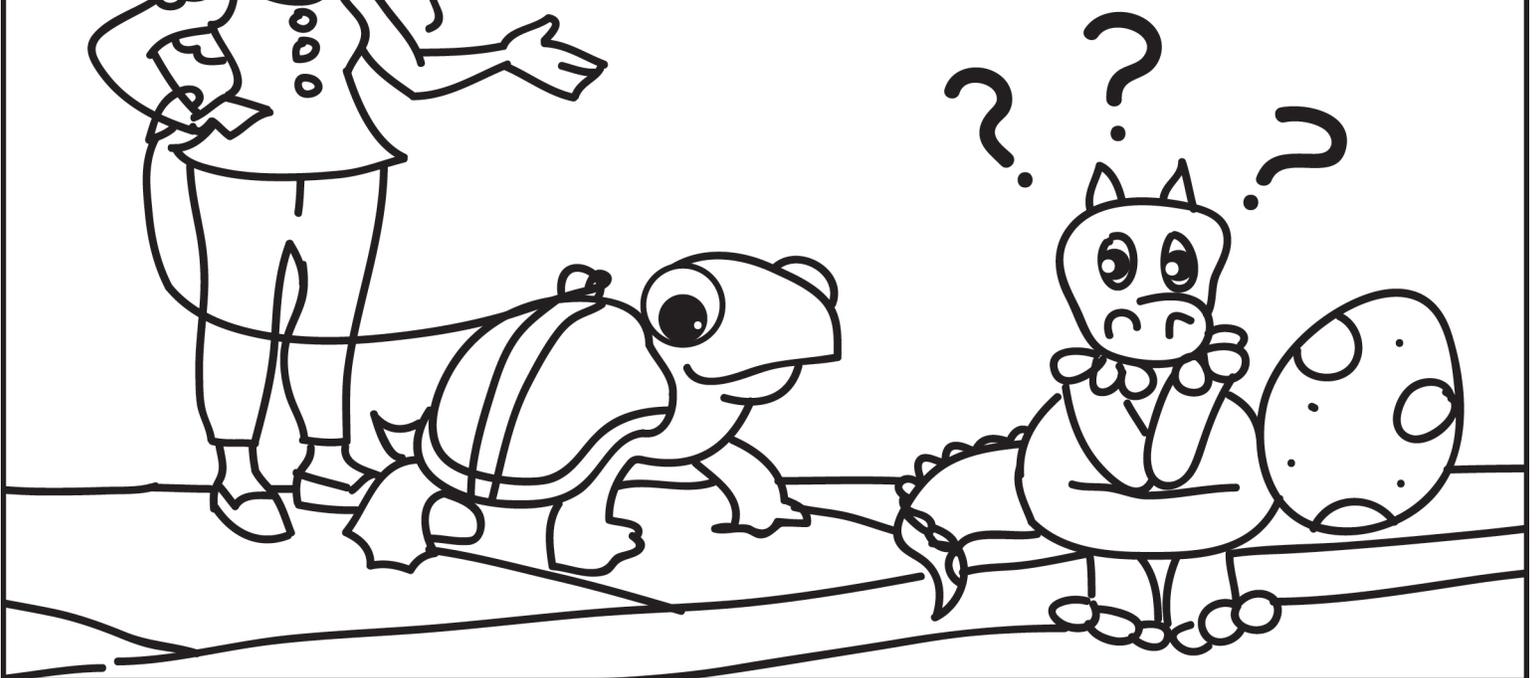

Cam says I really like this house. It has many boulders the kids can play on!

The Dragon family was even more unhappy when they could not rent the house in Lancaster because they have green skin!

A woman with a service animal came up to the Dragon family as they sat and wondered what they were going to do next.

Why are you all so sad?

We have been looking for a home to rent
but we are the wrong color
and no one wants to rent to families.

The woman explained that in Pennsylvania you have the right to live wherever you want regardless of your age, race, sex, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, disability or even if you are a family with children or are pregnant.

The Dragon family and the woman with the service animal set out in search of a home. She thinks she knows just the right place that they will like. And it's right in her neighborhood!

The Dragon family is so happy!
They have found a new home in Pittsburgh
that suits them!

Yipee!
Love it!

WOW!

The Dragon family now knows that we all have the right to live wherever we want.
